Nick was a boy in fifth grade who went to Lincoln Elementary School.

Mrs. Granger was the meanest and most old fashioned teacher in fifth grade in Lincoln Elementary School.

Nick was famous for sidetracking the teacher with delaying questions.

Mrs. Granger loved dictionaries and had x-ray vision to see children chewing gum.

Mrs. Granger taught Language Arts. And Nick was her student.

Nick tried to sidetrack her in the last three minutes, but the plan backfired.

OMG!

He asked her where all the words from a big dictionary came from.

But she gave him the question for an oral report for homework.

He spent all day and all night doing homework.

Listening to boys playing football outside.

In class he read the oral report using all the time they had in the class.

In the last minute Mrs. Granger stopped him and gave the homework, but that doesn't mean that she won't be sidetracked again.

HOMEWORK:
read all the dictionaries in the world.
